

Letter to a little Human

by Jessica Brockmann

The image is a vertical composition of abstract, painterly elements. At the top, a dark, deep blue night sky is filled with several bright, four-pointed white stars. A large, sweeping, multi-colored band of light, resembling an aurora or nebula, curves across the upper half of the frame. This band transitions through colors of green, yellow, orange, red, and magenta. Below this, the sky transitions into a gradient of orange and yellow, suggesting a sunset or sunrise. In the lower right quadrant, a realistic, blue and white globe of Earth is depicted, showing continents and oceans. The bottom of the image features dark, silhouetted mountain ranges against the warm, orange glow of the horizon.

Dedicated to all living Beings, discovering what it means to be human.

Dear little Soul, a warm, loving hello and a welcome from the bottom of my heart to this wonderful world. How beautiful that we are fortunate enough to get to know you. Your arrival is a joyous occasion, and we are grateful to be a part of your journey.

Do you know, that you hit the jackpot right at the beginning of your life - the jackpot being life itself, my little Soul? You were the first one, reaching the warm womb of your mother, and have been growing there until now, until you became ready to join us. Isn't that a miracle?

Little Soul, this is not the only wondrous thing, that is waiting for you - we are surrounded by miracles. You are living now on Planet Earth, a massive ball with bubbling heat in its core, developed over millions of years into what we call Mother Earth today, our wonderful home Planet.

Our Earth is part of our solar system, which is part of the bright milky way. The milky way is a galaxy and consists of plenty of planets, twinkling stars, fascinating clouds, vibrant suns, and glowing moons. An awesome spectacle within the firmament. And you'll get to know our earth moon quite soon, she has eyes, a mouth, and a nose - if you look close enough. Our Galaxy is part of the Universe - a continuously growing universal intelligence - according to Albert Einstein. Who this man is, that's another Story my Dear.

But you recognize, my little Soul, that we are part of something very very big - so big, that it surpasses the imagination of a lot of human beings. But honestly, it isn't that complicated. You just have to remember, everything is connected to everything and we humans have the good fortune to be part of that rich tapestry - life on Mother Earth.

Earth is our home and you won't believe what you can admire and marvel at - we are not alone here you must know. We are co-living with all kinds of animals, plants, wondrous beings, a million miles of coastlines, mountains reaching up all the way to the stars, deserts of ice and sand, oceans as far as you can gaze, and our weather, so typical and important for all of us. Everything will tell you a fascinating story, if you listen into the whispering silence. We call it nature and we are part of it - what a gift to be here.

It all remains covert for you until now, but soon my little Soul, soon your door will open into this breathtaking world. Maybe you question yourself: "What needs to happen for that opening?" Just a little bit of patience.

The Universe, together with your parents gifted some amazing capabilities to you. To smell, to taste, to listen, to see, to feel, and move on mother earth free from giddiness. Capabilities that enable us human beings - yes, you also my little Soul - to make sense of this Earth, our world, and to create our own, unique reality.

All kinds of sensual experiences await you. The enchanting scent of your habitat, spices, herbs, plants, your home - nature emits a unique fragrance you will never forget. Be curious about the sweet sour taste of your first little apple on your tongue. Of the first sound of music in your tiny ears, when your parents are singing you to sleep. When they accompany you in your dreams, a place of unlimited possibilities beyond human imagination and yet real.

Look forward to that extraordinary moment, when you recognize your parents for the first time and see, how they smile at you full of love and light. The tingling on your feet, when you dance barefoot through dewy fresh grass. And your first little steps, when you slowly start discovering our vast and rich world, Mother Earth. Who knows, maybe your little feet will carry you one day to the moon and far beyond.

Beloved little Soul, our world, the whole Universe is open for you and you'll leave your unique traces behind. Maybe you ask yourself, "What is this all about - why am I here?" Believe me, little Soul, a lot of wise and smart human beings already wondered about it. Twisting and turning their head upside down, looking within and outside.

You'll find your very unique answer to that question, but don't ponder it too much, most of the time, an answer appears just when you stop searching and start being. There is so much to learn, so much to sense, so much to gaze at, be curious and joyful to live life fully. And rest assured, you'll never be alone. You've got an amazing family tribe around the world, who would do everything in order for you to live a fulfilled, exciting, loving life worth living.

One thing, I haven't mentioned so far, beloved Soul. There is something very special on Earth, we call it love. Maybe you already experienced it, it's the cozy warm sensation in your little body that travels through you if you sense the closeness of your mum or curl up on the belly of your dad. It is the security, that you feel while you discover the world, the trust deep inside you, that encourages you to experience, and the comfort, that protects you on your extraordinary journey.

All that is love and so much more. I know your dear parents love you from the deepest of their hearts, just as Mother Earth and the Universe itself. Sometimes you might feel disconnected, separated, experiencing the full spectrum of what it could mean, to be human. But little Soul, believe me, this precious feeling of love will carry you through your life - wherever you will be - because you carry it within. It's the twinkling star, the inner lighthouse, radiating from your eyes, your being, illuminating the life you will live.

Here's to a joyful life filled with love!
